Internet faxing uses the same principles as facsimile transmission, but it uses a Web interface instead of a fax machine. It can be a flexible, inexpensive option for transmitting documents. Internet fax services usually assign a fax number to each person who signs up for the service. people can send faxes to this number, and customers can send faxes via e-mail without using a fax machine. To send a fax through an Internet fax service:

- The sender attaches a document to an e-mail message. The document can be a scan of a paper document, or it can be created in a program like Microsoft Word.
- The sender addresses the message to the recipient's fax number, followed by the name of the faxing service (for example:

18005551234@emailfaxes.com). • The service translates the attachment so that a fax machine can read it. • The service sends the data across the phone line. • The recipient's fax machine decodes the data and prints the fax. To receive a document from a traditional fax machine through an Internet fax service: • The sender dials the fax number that the service has assigned to the recipient. • The fax machine translates the data and transmits it over the phone line. • The service receives the data, translates it into an image file and sends the image to the recipient's e-mail address. • The recipient opens the em-ail message and the attachment and views the file.
